Unstamped arbitration agreements valid: SC

Earlier, a five-judge Bench had held such agreements unenforceable

BHAVINI MISHRA
New Delhi, 13 December

A Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court on Wednesday unanimously ruled that unstamped arbitration agreements were legally enforceable. The seven-judge Bench said such a defect does not render the contract invalid, reversing a ruling by a five-judge Bench in April.

This means arbitration agreements will not be stalled on the issue of not stamping the underlying contract. This (non-payment of stamp duty) is a curable defect, the Bench comprising Chief Justice of India (CJI) D Y Chandrachud, and Justice Sanjay Kishan Kaul, Sanjiv Khanna, B R Gavai, Surya Kant, JB Pardiwala, Manoj Misra said.

"Parties to arbitration agreement conferred jurisdiction on arbitral tribunal. When parties pen their signatures to arbitration agreement they are regarded to independently sign the arbitration agreement. In the process, the separability provision gives rise to the doctrine of competence. The negative aspect of the doctrine of competence is that it limits courts interference at the referral stage and the arbitral tribunal is given a chance to rule on their own jurisdiction," the court said.

Stamping means when a stamp duty is paid on the value of the agreement as per the Stamps Act. The question was whether an agreement that contains an arbitration clause but is not stamped will be enforceable.

The court clarified that though unstamped arbitration agreements are enforceable, they are inadmissible in evidence. The Bench said that an objection as to stamping does not fall for determination under Sections 8 or 11 of the Arbitration Act and the concerned

WHAT THE COURT SAID

- Agreements without the right stamping not automatically void or unenforceable. But they can't be used as evidence
- It also said this was a "curable problem"
- Stamping refers to paying stamp duty on the value of an agreement as required by law

LIKELY IMPACT

- Less judicial intervention in arbitration process
- Arbitration agreements won't be stalled on the issue of not stamping court must examine if an arbitration agreement prima facie (on the face of it) exists.

"Any objection in relation to the stamping of the agreement falls within the ambit of the arbitral tribunal. The corollary of doctrine of competence is that the court may only see if an arbitration agreement exists. Whether stamp duty is paid or not would need detailed merit of evidence. Interpretation according to Stamp Act does not allow law to be flouted and it ensures that Arbitration Act does not detract from Stamp Act," the court said.

The Supreme Court's five-judge Bench in April in the NN Global Mercantile case had held that unstamped arbitration agreements are not enforceable. This ruling was in September referred to a seven-judge bench for reconsideration.

After the April judgment, the Union Law Ministry constituted an expert committee to recommend reforms to the Arbitration and Conciliation Act. While the questions of law were resolved by the seven-judge Bench on Wednesday, the court said the curative petition before it is yet to be decided on facts.

"We have kept the curative petition open on facts. We have resolved questions of law. We have said section 35 of the Stamp Act is unambiguous," the bench said.

Experts said the NN Global judgment had far-reaching ramifications, as unstamped or deficiently stamped arbitration agreements were declared to be void. "This concern among others, has been addressed," said Ajay Bhargava, Partner, Khaitan & Co.

Ateev Mathur, Partner, SNG & Partners, Advocates & Solicitors says the verdict gives complete clarity. "It would result in a smooth arbitration process without judicial intervention on issues of stamping at the stage of Section 8 or Section 11. Arbitrations would now not be stalled on the issue of non-stamping of the underlying contract," he said.

This issue has been a bone of contention in several arbitration matters since the judgment in the case of SMS Tea Estates in 2011, followed by Garware Wall Ropes in 2019.

Customs duty and excise Bills tabled

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Wednesday introduced two Bills in Parliament to immediately give effect to Customs and excise duty changes announced in the Budget and raise the age limits for president and members of the goods and services tax appellate tribunals (GSTs). The Provisional Collection of Taxes Bill, 2023, which seeks to replace the pre-Independence era Provisional Collection of Taxes Act, 1931, is aimed at curbing speculative activities, following changes in Customs and excise duties in the Budget. The changes in rates of income and corporate taxes, incorporated in the Budget announced on February 1, are effective from April 1 or a notified date. Bills seek to cap the age limit for president and members of the GST appellate tribunals at 70 years and 67 years, respectively.

Bill to repeal 76 outdated laws gets nod

Parliament on Wednesday passed a Bill to repeal 76 redundant and obsolete laws with the government saying the move is part of its continuing efforts to improve the ease of living and doing business. The Repealing and Amending Bill, 2023 was cleared in the Rajya Sabha with a voice vote. Lok Sabha had cleared the legislation on July 27 this year. In December last year, the government introduced the Repealing and Amending Bill to cull 65 old laws. But the Bill could not come up for discussion in subsequent sessions. The government later moved an amendment to add 11 more laws to the list, bringing the total to 76 laws.
